Swedish Singer Distinguishes Between War and Art and Says Music Will Resume Former Place.

"War and art are distinctly separate and German music, now in extreme disfavor, will become popular again, said Miss Julia Claussen, noted singer who appears this evening in concert under the auspices of the Tuesday Musical club "The beautiful and true in music will live, there was never but one Beethoven, there was never but one Wagner and their wonderful music will always be in demand."

The news of peace throughout the world has brought joy to millions of hearts and there are none happier than the artists, for the war has caused them great suffering. Our mission is to make the peo-

Miss Claussen expects to fill canceled engagements in Europe when travel is permitted, as the declaration of war postponed her engagements Antonia A. Reikat, Paxton, Neb. at the Convent Gardens in London and in Paris.

Fourth Visit to Omaha.

This is the fourth trip Miss Claussen has made to Qmaha and as she has many friends here she enjoys each visit better than the last. She spent Monday very quietly, having dinner with a few friends at the Fontenelle in the evening. She will probably not finish the season in concert work, as she is a member of the Metropolitan Grand Opera company and may continue her work there! Mr. Arthur Hackett, tenor, will appear with Miss Claussen this Special interest attaches to tonight's concert, because one of the songs to be sung by Arthur Hackett, "Last Night I Heard the Nightingale," was composed by Mary Turner Salter, a sister of Mrs. C. W Morton of Omaha. Mrs. Morton's daughter, Dorothy, is a talented mu-

Saloniki, Nov. 19.—(By Associated Press.)—Over the shell-pitted ground of Gallipoli point the British landed peacefully at dusk tonight using as stepping stones the bullet-riddled hulks grounded under fire in 1915. From these vessels thousands went toward the Turkish batteries and death during the ill-fated campaign three years ago. The British are occupying the forts along the lower Dardanelles, which the Turks are turning over. They have already placed 200 cannon in the hands of the British.

The Turkish commander at Fort Chanak, on the Dardanelles, was formerly an adjutant under the German commander of forces defending the straits. He said to the correspondent: "From the moment the submarine barricade of the Atlantic was declared, provoking America to enter the war, Germans knew their cause was lost. Since that time Turkish unwillingness to continue the war has grown steadily."
